KANW Has Added Three New Shows to Our HD2 Schedule. Science Friday, Innovation Hub and Live Wire are now part of lineup.

INNOVATION HUB

To listen to KANW-HD2, you need a radio that is a certified digital receiver. HD radios are available at a number of retailers. There are also HD apps for certain smart phones. More information about HD radio is available at ibiquity.com. You can also listen to KANW-HD2 on-the-air at 90.3 FM in Santa Fe and Española and at 91.1 FM in Grants. KANW-HD2 is completely subscription and commercial free. For more information on KANW-HD2 go to KANW.com.

Science Friday

Fridays, 12 pm - 2 pm (replaces To the Point and The Takeaway on Fridays)

Covering the outer reaches of space to the tiniest microbes in our bodies, Science Friday is the trusted source for news about science, technology, and other cool stuff. Each week host Ira Flatow mixes it up with people in the know and those who want to be. It's brain fun, for curious people.

Innovation Hub

Saturdays, 1 pm - 2 pm (Tavis Smiley Show becomes a 1-hour show)

From the economy to education, healthcare to urban renewal, Innovation Hub explores the forces that are changing our world. Host Kara Miller talks to today's most creative, cutting-edge thinkers and takes us on guided tour of the future, courtesy of those who are shaping it.

Live Wire!

Sunday, 8 pm - 9 pm (replaces Philosophy Talk)

Live Wire! is a weekly one-hour variety show with a modern twist. It blends music from up-and-coming artists, original sketch comedy, spoken word, and interviews with writers, filmmakers, comedians and other thought-provoking people. Live Wire! is taped in front of an enthusiastic live audience at the 400-seat Alberta Rose Theatre in Portland's historic Alberta Arts District.

KANW Volunteer Announcer Appreciates NPR News Approach

All things considered, Mendy Mills is enjoying her stint as a KANW volunteer announcer and believes that in this role she can broaden the discussion of important topics.

One of the shows she hosts at KANW is "All Things Considered Sunday." It is a NPR radio newsmagazine that delivers in-depth reporting and transforms the way listeners understand current events and view the world. The program presents news mixed with compelling analysis, insightful commentaries, interviews, and special — sometimes quirky — features. "All Things Considered" airs on KANW on Sundays from 6 to 7 pm. Mendy said it is her favorite NPR program.

"On NPR and 'All Things Considered Sunday' you hear news you won't get on any other network," Mendy says. "You'll hear human stories about people making a difference and just not crime stories like so many other networks."

Mendy moved to Albuquerque about 10 years ago after living in Colorado and Peru. Always an NPR fan, she heard an announcement about the KANW Radio Broadcast Class and signed up. "It was sort of selfish," Mendy said. "I wanted to see if I could speak in public and enjoy it." She can and she does.

"The class was excellent," she said. "I learned so much and had fun. I also developed a real camaraderie with the others in class."

One of the lessons she learned from the class was practice, practice, practice. "I used a program to record myself and listen to myself. This helped me realize I was peaking too high and speaking too fast," she said. "Low and slow is my slogan."

Besides serving thousands of listeners during her shift at the station, she learned there are other perks. "I was able to wish

'The Splendid Table' Serves Up a Radio Program for People Who Love to Eat

The Splendid Table has been at the forefront of food issues and policies since its inception. The Splendid airs on KANW's HD2 channel Saturdays at 11 am.

Long before eating local became a catchphrase and farmers' markets became ubiquitous, The Splendid Table was talking about the changes needed in the food system and what was happening on the grassroots level. In fact, when The Splendid Table first went on the air, host Lynne Rossetto Kasper had to make sure to define such terms as "organic" and "sustainable" for listeners.

Today those terms have become part of the everyday lexicon, and people's hunger for wholesome food and the rituals surrounding it has only increased.

To listen to KANW-HD2, you need a radio that is a certified digital receiver. HD radios are available at a number of retailers. There are also HD apps for certain smart phones. More information about HD radio is available at ibiquity.com. You can also listen to KANW-HD2 on-the-air at 90.3 FM in Santa Fe and Española and at 91.1 FM in Grants. Get Out the Word on Your Non-Profit Event

Public Service Announcements are offered as a community service by KANW 89.1. They are reserved for non-profit organizations, for publicizing events or services, and for requesting volunteers.

Public Service Announcements can only be submitted by mail, email on KANW.com on the Events tab. Please do not call or fax your announcement. Send announcements to brasher@aps.edu or to 2020 Coal SE, Albuquerque, New Mexico, 87106

- All potential PSAs must be submitted at least three weeks prior to the event.
- We prefer to get prepared scripts, but you can also send us a press release or brochure. Pre-produced PSAs are not accepted under any circumstances.
- Please include a telephone number that our listeners can contact for more information. We also recommend including a web address and/or an email address.
- Due to the high volume of PSA requests, we cannot notify you as to whether your PSA was aired on KANW.

my dad a happy Fathers' Day on air," Mendy said. "He was listening online from Deming."

When Mendy isn't at KANW, she is an artist. She paints in oil and acrylics and does wood cut and shadow boxes. She had shown in a couple of galleries in the area.

Another one of the Sunday evening shows Mendy enjoys is "Snap Judgment." It tells intriguing stories about extraordinary and defining events in people's lives. The program's raw, intimate, and musical brand of storytelling dares listeners to see a sliver of the world through another's eye.

"Snap Judgment' is as far away from news as you can get," she said. "It is a smart move from NPR to reach a broader, younger audience." Mendy is helping KANW reach our Sunday evening listeners.

"I am proud to volunteer for a station that plays quality programming from NPR like 'All Things Considered' and 'Snap Judgment,'" Mendy says.

Chopped Sugar Snap Pea Salad with Fresh Cheese and Mint

Serves 4-6 as a side dish

15 minutes prep time

by Sally Swift, Managing Producer The Splendid Table

Peas signal springtime in my book. Sweet and crisp, raw sugar snap peas are hard to resist. In this recipe they are chopped into bite-size pieces and paired with crispy chunks of radish, a bit of mint and crumbles of smooth, creamy, fresh cheese.

Cook to Cook: Latino-style cheeses are turning up more and more in supermarkets across the country. Meant to be crumbled with fingers, they have a pure milk flavor and gentleness that is delicious. They're not great melters, which may be the reason we don't turn to them as often as we should. They are very reasonably priced and vary depending on the part of the country you are in. Look for queso fresco or queso panela.

2 large cloves garlic, minced

2 tablespoons (or more) fresh lemon juice

1 teaspoon unseasoned rice wine vinegar

3 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil

Salt and freshly ground black pepper

1 pound sugar snap peas, trimmed, stringed, cut into 1-inch pieces on the diagonal

2 bunch radishes, about 10, trimmed, and cut into quarters

2 tightly packed tablespoons coarsely chopped fresh mint, plus additional sprig for garnish

4 ounces queso fresco or other fresh cheese such as queso panela, fresh ricotta or farmer's cheese, crumbled

1. In a large serving bowl, combine the garlic, lemon juice and vinegar, and let macerate 10-15 minutes. Slowly whisk in the olive oil, then add salt and pepper as needed.

2. Add the sugar snap peas, radishes and mint, and toss to coat in the dressing. Taste for seasoning, adding more lemon, salt and pepper as needed. Sprinkle the crumbled queso fresco over the top, give an additional toss to distribute and garnish with a sprig of mint.
