KMST Charter Society Holiday Reception included food, conversation and entertainment!

Good Vibrations!

Rich Hall and Jeremy Jamison of the group "2 Far Gone," played and sang holiday music and songs during the Annual Charter Society Holiday Reception, held December 1st at Hasselmann Alumni House in Rolla. Approximately 40 people enjoyed an evening of music provided by "2 Far Gone," food by Chartwells and beverages from the St. James Winery and Public House Brewing Company. KMST Station Manager John Francis thanked the Charter members for their support of KMST over the year and briefed the crowd on KMST plans for 2017.

KMST wishes you a season filled with great memories

From the manager's desk ... by John Francis

The holiday season is in full swing! In my years at KMST as Program/Operations director, I used to dread the holidays, as it always meant extra work in programming holiday specials, covering vacation shifts, and extra automation to write and double-check for accuracy. Still, Christmas has always been my favorite holiday, and I enjoy it today just as much as I ever have – perhaps even more now, as I'm more cognizant of time slipping by, and am more eager to soak in the moments as they happen.

For those of you who attended our Charter Society holiday reception, thank you for such a nice evening for all of us! We had great food provided by Chartwells dining, a very nice selection of wines and beers provided by St. James Winery and The Public House Brewing Company, holiday music provided by Rich Hall and Jeremy Jamison of the group "2 Far Gone," and great fellowship and conversation provided by you!

2 Far Gone

If you haven't already noticed, we have a wonderful selection of holiday specials lined up for your listening enjoyment! If you go to our website at www.kmst.org, you'll see a snowman on the upper right-hand side. Click that, and it will open up a description of all the specials this season, or see pages 4-7 of this newsletter for a listing of specials. You'll see a lot of our old favorites, along with a few new ones!

You may be receiving a letter in the mail about our year-end campaign. Don't worry – we won't be going on the air and pitching live for it, but we do want to give you one last opportunity to support your favorite public radio station, and be able to take a tax deduction in 2016 for it as well. If you feel so moved, go to our website at KMST.org, and click the green "Donate" button. You'll be helping to make the New Year a little brighter for all of us!

Whether you celebrate Christmas or Hanukkah, Kwanza or nothing at all, I wish for you a season filled with great memories, and a happy and prosperous new year!

Christmas in Baroque Malta WFMT

The Rose Ensemble's celestial voices team up with a Baroque band to present this unique seasonal program of glorious 17th-century music from Italy, preserved in the Cathedral archives on the Island of Malta, and now being heard for the first time in hundreds of years. Imagine the splendor of the great Baroque churches of Venice and Rome, resounding with choral music as opulent and ornate as the buildings themselves. Now imagine that same music lost forever in Italy but miraculously preserved for centuries on the Island of Malta. The Rose Ensemble takes us on a fascinating journey to celebrate these musical treasures in a seasonal program featuring lush harmonies, prophetic poetry, a tender lullaby, and shepherds' songs bursting with exaltation. Joined by a band of period instruments, the voices of The Rose Ensemble invite us to spend Christmas in Malta, and welcome the season with Baroque majesty and joy!

● 8:00pm - 9:00pm

Song Travels NPR

Join Michael Feinstein for an hour of yuletide cheer and music. This edition of Song Travels journeys from Hollywood's vintage silver screen to New York City's iconic Birdland club. The Michael Feinstein Big Band performs selections from the classic movie White Christmas, and Feinstein shares rare recordings from some of his favorite performers.
