6.1 Telling Public Radio's Story

Jump to question: 6.1 ▼

The purpose of this section is to give you an opportunity to tell us and your community about the activities you have engaged in to address community needs by outlining key services provided, and the local value and impact of those services. Please report on activities that occurred in Fiscal Year 2016. Responses may be shared with Congress or the public. Grantees are required to post a copy of this report (Section 6 only) to their website no later than ten (10) days after the submission of the report to CPB. CPB recommends placing the report in an "About" or similar section on your website. This section had previously been optional. Response to this section of the SAS is now mandatory.

Joint licensee Grantees that have filed a 2016 Local Content and Services Report as part of meeting the requirement for TV CSG funding may state they have done so in the corresponding questions below, so long as all of the questions below were addressed as they relate to radio operations in such report. You must include the date the report was submitted to CPB along with the TV Grantee ID under which it was submitted.

1. Describe your overall goals and approach to address identified community issues, needs, and interests through your station's vital local services, such as multiplatform long and short-form content, digital and in-person engagement, education services, community information, partnership support, and other activities, and audiences you reached or new audiences you engaged.

KNAU had the opportunity to bring a science reporter to the newsroom through a collaborative project with KJZZ. It's resulted in a tremendous increase in feature, spot and 2-way reporting, contacts and public appearances. KNAU collaborated on several news projects with KUYI, Hopi Radio, to bring more news and voices from the region's Native American tribes. KNAU continued to work with former national Morning Edition producer Cindy Carpien for reporter training in collecting sound, writing around it and mixing sound for NPR quality pieces. KNAU broadened our newscast division leading to at least half a dozen reporters on the air with spot news, many times reporting for the national network. KNAU's news team continued to expand its presence/output on social media. The KNAU news team participated in many community activities including speaking engagements and guest lectures at public schools and at Northern Arizona University, Arizona State University and The University of Arizona.

2. Describe key initiatives and the variety of partners with whom you collaborated, including other public media outlets, community nonprofits, government agencies, educational institutions, the business community, teachers and parents, etc. This will illustrate the many ways you're connected across the community and engaged with other important organizations in the area.

KNAU continued to work with NPR station KJZZ in Phoenix as part of the science desk with all four of the state's public radio stations participating. KNAU's science reporter has been outstanding and continues to improve exponentially. KNAU collaborated with National Native News and Hopi Public Radio on several news stories and storytelling projects. KNAU's news director took on one summer intern from Northern Arizona University's journalism department. The KNAU news team participated in many community activities including speaking engagements, guest lectures at public schools and at Northern Arizona University, Arizona State University and The University of Arizona.

3. What impact did your key initiatives and partnerships have in your community? Describe any known measurable impact, such as increased awareness, learning or understanding about particular issues. Describe indicators of success, such as connecting people to needed resources or strengthening conversational ties across diverse neighborhoods. Did a partner see an increase in requests for related resources? Please include direct feedback from a partner(s) or from a person(s) served.

The AZ Science Desk has given KNAU one more full time reporter in the newsroom, which is critical to a small station like ours. The news exposure is statewide. KNAU has reached an international audience due to our increase in science reporting. KNAU's science reporter has been nominated for a Viola Award, a local honor in science, art, culture and public service. KNAU entered an unprecedented number of stories for the 2016 Edward R. Murrow Awards. KNAU's news production and social media presence and increased contributions to the station.

4. Please describe any efforts (e.g. programming, production, engagement activities) you have made to investigate and/or meet the needs of minority and other diverse audiences (including, but not limited to, new immigrants, people for whom English is a second language and illiterate adults) during Fiscal Year 2016, and any plans you have made to meet the needs of these audiences during Fiscal Year 2017. If you regularly broadcast in a language other than English, please note the language broadcast.

KNAU is in a unique location geographically, bordering the country's largest Indian tribe – the Navajo Nation – as well as one of the most remote and private tribes, the Hopi. Our news coverage regularly includes tribal issues, including sacred land and artifacts, environmental, cultural and political topics. KNAU's tribal news coverage is often featured in NPR's national newscast. In the last year, KNAU reporters have covered issues relating to immigration, disabilities, health, education and many other topics that affect minority or diverse populations of listeners. KNAU also partnered with KUYI, Hopi Radio, for several storytelling projects. KNAU is currently interviewing and collecting immigration stories from international students at Northern Arizona University.

5. Please assess the impact that your CPB funding had on your ability to serve your community. What were you able to do with your grant that you wouldn't be able to do if you didn't receive it?

KNAU operations depend on CPB funding. Critical CPB funding, along with institutional support from Northern Arizona University, provides the bulk of the stations operating revenue. KNAU is able to leverage those funds with membership campaigns and program underwriting to more than triple the investments from CPB and NAU. CPB funding allows KNAU to produce local news programming on a level consistent with stations in major markets. We hire professional journalists, announcers, producers and development staff. Without CPB funding, KNAU would not be able to operate as a primary source of news and information for tens of thousands of listeners and the station would be unable to purchase quality public radio programs that connect our audience to the world.

7.1 Journalists

Jump to question: 7.1

This section builds on the Census of Journalists conducted by CPB in the summer of 2010. These positions are the primary professional full-time, part-time or contract contributors to local journalism at your organization. The individuals in these positions will have had training in the standards and practices of fact-based news origination, verification, production and presentation. These are generally accepted titles for these positions but may not match position descriptions at your organization exactly. Please do your best to account for each professional journalist in your organization. Please do not count student or volunteer journalists.
