

Saint Louis University carefully researches the foundations with which we have relationships. By engaging with leading medical schools, the Everest Foundation has a history of supporting physician education and training, with an emphasis on addressing the shortage of primary care practitioners. With its generous grant, the Foundation is supporting the outstanding medical education provided at Saint Louis University, and we look forward to helping address this critical need for primary care physicians. As with all of our graduate medical education programs, candidates for positions made possible because of the grant are evaluated on the basis of their own merits. Only qualified candidates are selected for graduate medical education at the sole discretion of Saint Louis University.

--

Nancy Solomon
Communications Director
Saint Louis University Medical Center