Maine Public is grateful for the support and partnership of a generous Maine family in establishing Maine Public Radio and Maine Public Classical.

All pledges through June 30, 2017 will be matched dollar for dollar by their $2.4 million challenge grant—the largest in Maine Public’s history!

MARK VOGELZANG
MAINE PUBLIC PRESIDENT & CEO

“The future of Maine Public is incredibly bright. I invite you to imagine public broadcasting in Maine in the years ahead: a growing audience and community of Mainers, joined together by our love of news, cultural, educational, and online programs. By investing in these areas now, we will create an even stronger Maine Public. Generous Maine philanthropists have supported our campaign, Charting a Bold Future, with a truly amazing gift! Your support is critical as we build for the future. Please join us today.”

“There are few non-profit organizations in Maine, if any, that support the entire state quite like Maine Public Radio and Television does. Maine needs an independent voice—a voice for our kids, grandchildren, and for all Mainers for years to come. Maine Public’s ability to change and adapt to our fast-changing media environment depends on you. Simply put, there has never been a more exciting time to be a part of public media in Maine.”
EVERY DAY, MAINE PUBLIC CONNECTS THE PEOPLE OF MAINE TO EACH OTHER AND TO THE WORLD through the open exchange of information, ideas, and cultural content. As Maine’s premier, independent media resource, we create exceptional opportunities for the communities we serve to engage with critical issues, compelling stories and quality entertainment.

THROUGH ITS RADIO, TELEVISION, EDUCATIONAL, AND WEB SERVICES, Maine Public provides information, inspiration, and connection to all corners of the state of Maine.

A LOCAL FOCUS brings stories from Portage Lake to Portland, and connects music lovers with their favorite performers.

TRUSTED AND VALUED RADIO AND TV allow for safe, informative, and in-depth content not found anywhere else.
Maine Public is our state’s leading source of trusted news and public affairs about Maine and the world.

In this age of constant information, Maine Public is a consistent source of impartial, verifiable news.

Maine Public champions the telling of Maine stories; important stories that ought to be heard, read, or viewed; stories that sustain an informed public.

Maine Public is your essential “go-to” source of news and information on critical issues; we help you and your family, friends, and neighbors to create stronger communities—and a stronger Maine.

With hours of local content each week during Morning Edition, All Things Considered, Maine Calling, and local public affairs programming, Maine Public brings you the stories of our state each day. What’s more, national and global perspectives from NPR, PBS, and the BBC connect us with important issues from Washington, New York, London, the Middle East, and beyond.
“Nothing touches our lives more on a daily basis in Maine than public radio—nothing.”

– MARION FREEMAN & CORKY ELLIS

“Did you hear it on Maine Public Radio?”

With its in-depth content that informs and captivates, Maine Public connects us—not only with the stories that matter, but with other Mainers who share in these “driveway moments.”
Maine Public inspires and delights with classical music, arts, and culture from here at home and around the world.

NO OTHER ORGANIZATION is as committed as Maine Public to providing access to classical music around our state.

Maine Public delivers the singular moments and experiences that transform lives—nurturing inspiration and creativity as a primary contributor to our state’s cultural richness.

The creation and growth of Maine Public Classical will bring more classical music, opera, and culture content to our listeners.

With more than 150 hours per week of classical and jazz music, Maine Public Classical is your 24/7 resource for world-class performances.

The soaring highs of classical and opera; the intensity of a jazz drum solo; profiles of our greatest artists on American Masters; the elegance and drama of Masterpiece—arts and culture from across Maine and the world have a home on Maine Public Radio and Maine Public Television.
“Music is more than a universal language; it is an experience that transports the listener and excites our imagination. Maine Public Classical ties the great canon of classical music to performing arts organizations that contribute to the vitality of our state’s music scene. As music lovers, we enthusiastically welcome the expansion that Maine Public has made possible.”

– GEORGE & MARGARET ISAACSON, BRUNSWICK
Maine Public provides digital content for audiences on all platforms—wherever, whenever.

WHETHER IT’S JAZZ to help you wind down your day, a podcast of all the day’s Maine news to catch you up, or a video that makes you laugh, Maine Public wants to be the place you go for experiences that make your life exceptional.

Today, Maine Public’s viewers and listeners are just as likely to download an episode of Doc Martin or stream an episode of Only A Game as they are to tune in the conventional way. Maine Public continues to build and grow an online presence to serve our digital audience exactly how they want us; always just a click away.

And the wonderful thing about our digital footprint is that it allows for deep conversations with our audience and levels of participation that has no bounds. Online news, podcasts, apps, live streaming, social media, and more—Maine Public provides unfettered access to our content and the opportunity to more fully experience what we have to offer.

THIS DAY IN MAINE gathers together the news that matters to Mainers. Each day, this podcast from Maine Public’s award-winning team presents stories from around the state in a podcast that goes with you, wherever you go.
Public broadcasting offers an experience—information and stories from around the world, every day. This is worth preserving, this is worth continually innovating, this is worth passing down.”

–PHYLLIS JALBERT AND CHANDRA OPPENHEIM
Building a sustainable future for Maine Public starts with your support now.

MAINE PUBLIC'S FUTURE depends on the support from our audiences and donors; we strive to build value for our members while remaining good stewards of these resources.

“We are strong supporters of Maine Public Radio and Television. In doing so, Maine residents will now be able to enjoy classical music and full time news statewide. Maine Public Radio and Television has been important to our family. Our support helps ensure a sound future for public media in Maine.”
