Maine Public Announces the use of Solar Power at Outdoor Events with Revision Energy Partnership

(Portland/Bangor/Lewiston)— Maine Public announces the formation of a community partnership with ReVision Energy, one of New England’s leading installers of solar electric and solar hot water systems. All of Maine Public’s outdoor community events will be fully or partially solar powered with equipment provided by ReVision throughout 2017 and into 2018.

Maine Public has a number of outdoor events scheduled this summer including a presence at the Down East Lobster Festival in Portland, two literacy events in Brewer and Bangor, and the Common Ground Fair in Unity.

“We are very excited to team up with ReVision Energy and be able to use solar energy at all of our outdoor community events,” said Mark Vogelzang, Maine Public’s President and CEO. “Solar energy is a great way to reduce Maine Public’s impact on the environment and we can’t wait to use this environmentally friendly option at as many events as possible!”
