The Washington Post recently published an article that spoke of the “graying” of NPR and its member stations. It was a fascinating look into the ways in which young people get their news -- through podcasts and social media and not by listening to the radio.

The article also spoke of what I would consider the desperate hit or miss approach of NPR to marketing their important news to a younger audience. We’ve all heard their segments with contemporary rock bands and the like. The NPR dilemma, of course, is to not throw the baby out with the dirty water.

NPR has an admittedly ageing population who grew up with the franchise. If you now try to attract a younger demographic with extreme changes to your programming, you risk alienating your core, faithful audience. Should that happen, you become meaningful to no one. You risk destroying what you have built. I have always believed that sooner or later, young people who, for the most part, care little about news or current affairs will come around because they need certain kinds of information. I’ve always put it this way, “When you get your first mortgage and begin to pay serious taxes you become a public radio listener.”

The other side of the story, of course, is what the member stations are doing to bring in younger audiences. At WAMC, we honor young people. We have all kinds of internships. We encourage our people to get out and teach college classes. We have relationships with schools and encourage class visits. We try to make sure that competent young people are given positions of responsibility at the station. We hired our news director Ian Pickus when he was 23 years old. We hired former Program Director Katie Britton when she was 22. We love to promote our interns into positions of responsibility when jobs come up. We depend on their antennae to pick up stories of importance. We have not been disappointed.

At WAMC, we encourage a sense of family with our listeners. It is not something that we gratuitously do. We are dedicated to young people and to their potential as the future doers and thinkers in this country. We believe that while there is some evidence that young people don’t care much about news and public affairs, there are those who really do. One of our board members tells us how his grandson and his partner listen to the station every morning. They are not alone. Young people are taught by their parents that a democracy demands our participation. Children get exposed to WAMC by just being in the car when their parents are listening. We used to say in our family that “The driver pays the fine” and “The driver picks the station.” But now as we move into a time where everyone is learning about podcasting and all the newer innovations, we all have to work doubly hard to make sure that our young people know how valuable this radio station is. That will take everyone’s efforts, yours and mine.

A time of endings and beginnings.

Alright folks, it's time to take out your twinkle lights, menorahs, and awful (yet hilarious) holiday sweaters, because do we have a month filled with specials to get you into the holiday spirit.

We're kicking off our awesome line-up on Monday, December 7th at 11AM with Hanukkah Lights. This perennial NPR favorite features Hanukkah stories and memoirs written by Kathryn Blume, Leah Lax, Eric Kimmel, Isaac Bashevis Singer, and Jonathan Safran Foer as read by NPR's Susan Stamberg and Murray Horwitz. Then on Tuesday, December 8th at 11AM, we have another celebration of Hanukah, with an exploration of Hanukah foods and traditional activities, and plenty of music on the special Candles Burning Brightly.

Later in the month, on Tuesday, December 22nd at 8PM we will air Paul Winter's 35th Annual Winter Solstice Celebration. Celebrate the Return of the sun and the warming of the earth with an exuberant feast of sound captured live in the majestic Cathedral of St. John the Divine. WNYC's John Schaefer hosts this all new performance, featuring the Paul Winter Consort with Paul McCandless, gospel singer Theresa Thomason, Danny Rivera—the "National Voice of Puerto Rico", and Abdel Salaam's Forces of Nature percussion and dance ensemble.

The specials keep on coming on December 24th. At 9AM we’ll hear, Breaking Ground: Lower Income, Higher Ed. College is seen as one of the most important ways for young people to break the cycle of poverty. In 2012, young adults with a bachelor's degree earned 57 percent more than young adult high school graduates. In the past few years, the Obama administration, private foundations and education reformers have focused on helping low-income children apply to college and receive financial aid. This, however, is only half the story. Research shows only one in four of these students actually graduate from college. Usually they drop out in their freshmen year. That was the case for Christopher Feaster, a Washington, D.C. teen who graduated near the top of his class despite being homeless. In this latest Breaking Ground documentary, we’ll introduce you to Christopher, explore how his story reflects the broader challenges facing low-income students, and consider potential solutions to the nation’s dismal college completion rates for its most vulnerable students.

Returning to the holiday festivities, at 10AM, we’ll enjoy the perennial 2-hour live performance of A Festival of Nine Lessons and Carols. Hosted by Michael Barone, this live service of spoken-word and music (choral and organ) is broadcast from the chapel of King’s College in Cambridge, England.

Noon will bring your daily dose of news from our award winning News Department on Midday Magazine, and that’s followed by Festivo Alt.Latino With Gaby Moreno & Friends at 1PM. Alt.Latino continues its homegrown tradition of celebrating the holidays in song with a special show featuring songwriter/performer Gaby Moreno and her band performing tracks from her popular 2014 album Posada.

Rounding out Christmas Eve day, at 2PM, join Michael Feinstein for an hour of yuletide cheer and music on Song Travels: Home for the Holidays. This edition of Song Travels journeys from Hollywood’s vintage silver screen to New York City’s iconic Birdland club.

On Christmas Day we have some of our favorite programs and some new ones that will tantalize your taste buds as much as your grandmother’s pecan pie. At 9AM we’ll welcome Christmas with Morehouse and Spelman Glee Clubs, followed by the two-hour St. Olaf Christmas Festival at 10AM. Noon will bring back our crack team of reporters on Midday Magazine, and The Moth Radio Hour at 1PM. Then closing out our day of specials is Jazz Piano Christmas XXVI, where NPR Music brings you another great concert from Kennedy Center. Kenny Barron, Fred Hersch, and Carmen Staaf perform their favorite holiday songs in this program hosted by Felix Contreras.

Continuing our month of holiday specials, on December 28th at 11AM, we’ll celebrate Kwanzaa with A Season’s Griot. Hosted for nearly 20 years by acclaimed storyteller Madafo Lloyd Wilson, this annual special captures the tales and traditions of African American and African peoples. Then celebrate the New Year with us, on Toast of the Nation. Beginning at 9PM on Dec 31st, and all through the night until 5AM January 1st, Toast of the Nation is the perfect audio complement for the occasion. It’s jazz that you can party to, all night long with countdowns to midnight in all four continental time zones. Spirited, improvised, grooving and swinging, each segment is a stop in a sequence of celebrations, contributing something new to the musical feast.

After Morning Edition, at 9AM we’ll get a dose of comedy on New Year’s with the PSO. Often compared to Victor Borge and Dudley Moore, Igudesman and Joo are two classical musicians who have taken the world by storm with their unique and hilarious sketches in theatrical shows. Now, they join Manfred Honeck and the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra for a whirlwind concert of humor and virtuosity. 11AM we’re live with New Year’s Day From Vienna. The Vienna Philharmonic presents its ever popular annual New Year’s Day concert from the Golden Hall of the Musikverein in Vienna. You’ll hear your favorite waltzes, polkas and more -- a festive way to start off the New Year. It’s presented by NPR Music and hosted by WBUR’s Lisa Mullins.

Because of the live broadcast, Midday Magazine will begin at 1PM.

Bringing a close to all of our specials, at 2PM our favorite satirists return with The Capitol Steps. It’s the Capitol Steps annual year in review special, Politics Takes a Holiday! All your favorite candidates will be there, and some will be emailing about it for years afterwards on their private server. Join Hillary, Bernie, the Donald, Jeb, Marco, Carly, and more Republican candidates than you can shake a stick at!

So, may you enjoy the shows we have lined up for you this month, have a wonderful holiday season, and survive your family gatherings.

With the holidays just around the corner, it is time to start thinking about your year-end tax planning and charitable giving. But with so many worthy causes of all kinds out there, it can be difficult to decide where and how to give. Instead of getting overwhelmed by the options, you can get the most out of your charitable holiday giving this year by planning ahead, and by following the example of Warren Buffett.

To start, try creating an overall gifting strategy to guide your decisions. By carefully planning your gifts ahead of time, you can increase their value, both in terms of your personal satisfaction as well as the control you will have over potential tax benefits. (Gifts to qualified charities are typically tax deductible; plus, if you give appreciated stocks or other securities, you can avoid paying capital gains taxes.) If you only respond to giving requests as you receive them, you might rush your decisions, leading to charitable giving that you might feel isn’t very effective or efficient. Instead, by looking ahead at the bigger picture, you can act on your own wishes and priorities. For a model of charitable giving this holiday season, look to the example set by Buffett, one of the world’s most successful long-term investors and a great philanthropist. In 2014 alone, he gave nearly $2.8 billion to charitable causes, with $2.1 billion going to the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation. But even if you don’t have that kind of wealth, you can still follow Buffett’s four key principles of giving:

1) Seek relevance – Your friends, extended family and coworkers may all ask you to contribute to their favorite charities, but you may feel more fulfilled if you know your gifts are truly aligned with your values. Buffett suggests clarifying what motivates you in your daily life – are there specific issues, like homelessness, education, health, or the environment, you feel particularly compelled to address?

2) Maximize impact – Look for charitable groups that have the greatest impact on their intended recipients. For example, if you are considering giving to a food bank, do some research to find out not only how many people it serves, but also whether it is reaching out to the households at greatest risk of hunger.

3) Support sustainability – Well-run nonprofit organizations, like well-run businesses, find ways to sustain themselves. If the nonprofit you’re considering giving to has run budget deficits for several consecutive years, then perhaps you should reconsider your plan. With a little research, you can learn the financial track record of nonprofits and charitable groups.

4) Look for quality in management and operations – You can learn a lot about a charitable group or nonprofit by visiting its facilities, reviewing its communications and studying its board of directors. If it operates with... efficiency and professionalism, you will feel more confident supporting it. If its management is substandard in any way, you might want to look elsewhere to bestow your hard-earned money. It will take some time and effort to follow these charitable giving guidelines, but doing so can pay dividends in terms of the benefits to you and to the recipients of your generosity. Even if you’re not Warren Buffett, you can still give like him this holiday season.

For help making a well-informed decision on your holiday giving, consult your financial professional.

The Ellen Sinopoli Dance Company will present an evening of electrifying modern dance that covers a spectrum of dynamic energy. Known for their collaborative integration of dance with talented artists from varied genres the evening will include the projected works of fiber artist Linda O'Connor, photographs by Thom O'Connor and the layered music of jazz trumpeter and composer Dave Douglas.

What would you do if you started to disappear? At the age of 45 Laury Sacks, an ebullient actress and the doting mother of two small children, had a reputation as the quickest wit in the room. At the age of 46, she began forgetting words. Soon she could barely speak. The film, Looks Like Laury Sounds Like Laury, captures one year in the long, but short journey of frontotemporal dementia, a little-understood disease that strikes people in the prime of life.

Cassidy is the former lead singer, main songwriter, and driving force behind the all female rock quintet, Antigone Rising. Cassidy calls this music the best she has ever produced. The self-titled album was a collaborative production between herself, LA-based pianist/producer Brother Sal, producer John Siket, best known for his work with Steve Lillywhite on U2, Peter Gabriel, Talking Heads and Dave Matthews.

Enjoy a night of their rompin’ stompin’ roots rock, sweet ballads and roadhouse blues led by Professor Louie -vocals, keyboards and accordion, joined by Miss Marie on vocals, percussion & piano, Frank Campbell on bass & vocals and John Platania on guitar & vocals.

This Month’s Film: JINGLE BELL ROCKS!

In JINGLE BELL ROCKS!, director Mitchell Kezin delves into the minds of some of the world’s most legendary Christmas music fanatics. He hits the road to hang with his holiday heroes in his search for the twelve best, under appreciated Christmas songs ever recorded. Kezin both asks and answers the question, “Why, when Christmas rolls around, are we still stuck cozying up with Bing Crosby under a blanket of snow?”

For over three decades the West Point Band’s have brought musical excellence to their audiences by presenting the best in big band favorites, popular music, and original compositions and arrangements for an ensemble. It’s getting to be quite the tradition here at The Linda with the West Point band coming each December and perform big band holiday favorites to a packed room of enthusiastic music lovers! And this year’s show most certainly will keep that tradition alive a we now present The West Point Band’s Benny Havens Band!

FOOD FOR THOUGHT IS A MONTHLY EVENING OF FOOD, FILM AND DISCUSSION WITH A FOCUS ON FILMS OF SOCIAL, POLITICAL, ENVIRONMENTAL AND COMMUNITY INTEREST. HELD ON THE THIRD THURSDAY OF EACH MONTH, THE NIGHT WILL FEATURE FOOD SAMPLES BY HONEST WEIGHT FOOD CO-OP, A FEATURE FILM SCREENING, AND AN OPEN PANEL DISCUSSION.

Instead of performing Charles Dickens’ beloved holiday classic for the umpteenth time, three actors decide to perform every Christmas story ever told…plus Christmas traditions from around the world, seasonal icons from ancient times to topical pop-culture, and every carol ever sung. A madcap romp through the holiday season! Contains some mild adult content and language.
