INTRODUCTION

This 2017 report of the Duval County Domestic Violence Fatality Review Team (DVFRT) examines and analyzes domestic violence homicides which occurred in Duval County (the consolidated city of Jacksonville), Florida, from January 1 through December 31, 2017. This report marks the twentieth year that the DVFRT has reviewed all the domestic homicides occurring within Duval County. Therefore, this report also provides overall summary patterns on domestic violence homicides from 1997 through 2017.

In general, the purpose of fatality reviews of any kind is to identify patterns and trends in deaths which might have been prevented. One expert notes that “[l]ike the reviews conducted after an airplane crash, a fatality review helps determine what went wrong and what could have been done differently to prevent the tragedy” (Websdale, 2003, p. 27). Domestic violence fatality reviews in particular seek to identify patterns and trends in homicides among intimate partners and/or family members which arise from domestic violence which might be prevented in the future through revised responses from criminal justice or other service providers in the local community. It is important to note that the approach used in fatality reviews is not to seek to attach blame for the death(s) to anyone other than the offender/suspect in the case but, instead, to identify agency practices or policies which might be improved. The National Domestic Violence Fatality Review Initiative notes that “[e]rror recognition, responsibility, honesty, and systemic improvement should be the focus rather than denial, blame, and personalizing the review” (NDVFRI at http://www.ndvfri.org).

For this reason, a diversity of membership on the review team is valuable for ensuring that major local organizations involved in providing responses/services to domestic violence victims or families are also involved in assessing where improvements might be needed. The Duval County DVFRT is composed of a variety of representatives of key local agencies and independent experts in the field (see page 2), each of whom comes to the review process with the intent to examine how fatalities might be prevented in the future. The summary findings and recommendations which arise from this examination (Section 3 herein) are intended to give local authorities guidelines for change. As one well-known expert in this area has observed, “…a fatality review identifies relevant social, economic, and policy realities that compromise the safety of battered women and their children” (Websdale, 2003, p.27). Such reviews may also examine deaths of third parties (e.g., other family members, friends, coworkers, neighbors) which happen to arise from violent domestic interactions even when the primary parties are not killed.

There are many uses for these annual fatality reviews, the most important of which is to inform the public about how the criminal justice system responds to incidents of domestic violence reported to police. By identifying areas of response which might be altered or improved, this review offers the possibility of preventing future deaths. These reviews are also instrumental in identifying lethal domestic violence patterns and securing federal or other assistance for local initiatives. For example, the DVFRT notes that Jacksonville has been fortunate to have the InVEST (Intimate Violence Enhanced Services Team) program, a local initiative geared toward reducing intimate partner homicides through integrating victim services from a variety of criminal justice and social service agencies. During the three years prior to the start of the InVEST initiative in 1999, there had been a steady increase in the number of intimate violence homicides in Duval County. However, since the beginning of that program, there has been a dramatic decline in intimate violence homicides among those domestic violence cases reported to police. It was in these cases that InVEST had an opportunity to intervene to try to prevent the violence from becoming lethal. It should be noted that 2011 was the first year in which a victim from Duval County who had stayed in shelter for more than 48 hours was killed by her abuser. In 2012 two victims who stayed in shelter more than 48 hours were killed, but not by the abusers from whom they had sought shelter. In 2016 there were two cases where the victim had received some services from the shelter, but not with the current suspect. On the whole, victims tracked by the DVFRT over the years were previously unreported to authorities and had not received any other intervention services.

Research suggests that the nationwide drop in domestic violence homicides since the 1980s may be the result, at least in part, of improved services to victims and/or perpetrators (Brown & Williams, 1993; Brown et al., 1999; Dugan et al., 1999; Puzone et al., 2000). In Duval County, Florida, the reductions were so dramatic that the Florida Attorney General currently funds InVEST initiatives throughout Florida. The DVFRT believes that the proactive work done by InVEST in trying to intervene in intimate violence cases has had a positive impact on reducing domestic homicide cases in Duval County. These fatality reports also facilitated the receipt of a federal “Arrest Grant” in Duval County.

A copy of this report is provided to all Fourth Judicial Circuit judges, the local sheriff, the local state attorney’s office, victim advocates, batterers’ intervention programs, local legislators, the military and local media. A copy is also placed on the web for public access (see listing at the National Domestic Violence Fatality Review Initiative at www.ndvfri.org).

The DVFRT hopes that the reader will find this report informative and useful. Any comments or questions about this report or the work of the DVFRT may be directed to 2017 Chair Adair Newman at 904-255-2730 or via email at Adairn@coj.net.
The Duval County Domestic Violence Fatality Review Team (hereafter referred to as DVFRT or the Team), was created in 1997 by the Duval County Domestic Violence Intervention Project Committee (DVIP). The Team exists for the purposes of annually collecting, reviewing and analyzing all domestic homicide cases within Duval County (Jacksonville), Florida, and issuing this report. The Team is composed of representatives of several governmental and non-profit agencies which deal directly with domestic homicide cases within the jurisdiction of Duval County, plus other local experts in this field. A complete list of the members of the Team for the 2017 analysis may be found on page two of this report.

Cases selected for review by this Team are those in which the key parties of the case (e.g., the primary offender and the primary victim) meet the definition of having a “domestic” relationship as set forth in Section 741.28 of the Florida Statutes. This defines domestic relationships as:

Spouses, former spouses, persons related by blood or marriage, persons who are presently residing together, as if a family, or who have resided together in the past, as if a family, and persons who have a child in common regardless of whether they have been married or have resided together at any time.

All homicide cases which meet this definition, whether they involve intimate partners or other relationships in the definition above, are flagged by the State Attorney’s Office (SAO), Fourth Judicial Circuit, and are brought to the attention of the Team for review. In addition, the Homicide Division of the Jacksonville Sheriff’s Office (JSO) flags cases which would not have been referred to the SAO for prosecution, such as homicide-suicides. From time to time, the Team has wrestled with additional cases in which a dispute between domestic partners or family members has resulted in the death of a third party (but not a person who fits the Florida Statute definition above). The first challenge is to identify third party cases, since they are not identified as “domestic” homicides by the JSO, but it seems clear in such cases that a death would not have resulted except for a domestic altercation of some kind.

In the last several years, the team has also sometimes included cases involving intimate partners that did not fit the domestic violence statute as written since the couple had not lived together nor had a child in common. However, these relationships had been of sufficient duration and the patterns were so similar that the team felt the cases should be included to get a true picture of homicides among intimate couples. The Team identified one such case for the year 2011, in which a male suspect killed a male friend of his former girlfriend. There was also a case in 2014 that did not fit the statutory definition of domestic violence in that a man killed his girlfriend’s sister, with the girlfriend as an accessory. They were all living together and, since the girlfriend was an accessory, the Team decided to include the case.

The Team reviewed a 2015 case in which a mother killed a man who had dated, then stalked and threatened to kill her daughter. This homicide was determined to be justified.
Since Suspect was the mother and not the daughter and the case involved a former dating relationship between the daughter and the homicide victim, the team decided it did not fit the statutory definition of domestic violence. Therefore, we did not include the case in this report and in our analysis. However, it should be noted that this case involved many of the patterns and undertones we see in domestic violence homicides.

It should be noted that the Team excludes child deaths resulting from domestic violence, unless the child was killed as part of an attack on an adult that fits the Florida Statute definition, as there is a separate local child death committee that reviews those fatalities. There was a case included in 2015 in which two children were killed as part of an attack on the mother, who survived. The children’s grandfather was also killed. There was also a case in 2017 in which a three-year-old child was killed during an attack on the mother.

In terms of procedure, the Team meets approximately monthly, normally beginning in January of each year, to review each identified case of domestic homicide from the previous year. It is important to note that--unlike many other fatality review teams--this Team reviews and reports on all domestic homicide cases which occur within a given year, regardless of the legal status of suspects at the time of the issuance of this report. Thus, this report accounts for all cases classified as domestic homicides in Duval County in 2017. For this reason, this report identifies cases by a number (e.g., 2017-01, 2017-02, etc.), an incident date, demographic facts, zip code, and police zone location only. No names of suspects or victims are used as some cases may still be pending legally. This approach provides a much more complete picture of domestic homicides in Duval County for any given year than is provided in those reports which include only closed cases. It also allows for more timely reviews and recommendations.

Case files are divided amongst Team members for intensive review in order to develop the elements of each case as presented herein. The documentary materials reviewed in each case may include any the following:

1. Police reports involving the victim and suspect.
2. Department of Children and Families (DCF) referrals involving victim and/or suspect.
3. Civil proceedings including Marchman and Baker Acts, Dissolutions of Marriage, Paternity actions and Injunctions for Protection involving victim and/or suspect.
4. Adult criminal records of victim and suspect.
5. State Attorney files involving victim and/or suspect.
6. Batterers' intervention program (BIP) participation including performance, completion, violations and victim contact.
7. Animal abuse or neglect complaints, if available.
8. In order to protect confidentiality, services for victims and children are considered but only reported in the multi-year aggregate patterns.

9. Other relevant known services provided to the victim and/or suspect.

10. Autopsy reports or other Medical Examiner’s information.

The information which is sought about each case from these materials includes critical factors and sub-factors which are viewed as providing as complete a picture as possible about each of these tragic incidents. These factors and sub-factors are:

I. CRIME
   Relationship of parties
   Case summary
   Children present at the scene
   Location of the crime (by zip code and police zone)

II. CRIMINAL RECORDS AND REPORTS
   Domestic violence
   Non-domestic violent crimes
   Drug or alcohol related offenses
   Weapons offenses

III. CIVIL RECORDS AND REPORTS
   Civil Injunctions
   Dissolutions of Marriage
   Department of Children and Families Referrals
   Baker Act and Marchman Act Commitments
   Paternity Actions

IV. SERVICES
   Shelter services/hotline calls
   Helping at Risk Kids Program (HARK) attendance
   Batterers’ intervention program (BIP) attendance
   Substance abuse program referral/attendance

V. OTHER CONCERNS/INFORMATION
   Includes anything else pertinent to the cause of this incident that is not covered in the categories listed above.

Individual Team members develop case profiles for each case using these factors. The case profiles are then shared with, and analyzed by, the whole Team for a collective review of each case. Questions may lead to further research on the case. The key factors permit the Team to try to understand the dynamics of what happened and to ask in each case whether there was anything that reasonably could have been done to prevent those events from unfolding. That is, were there warning signs which were ignored or not recognized by third parties who could have intervened or notified authorities? Were there opportunities for intervention which were missed? Were there services which could have been provided to either the victim or the offender which were not provided---or not adequately provided? The Team recognizes that ultimately offenders are responsible for their actions and the fatalities which ensue. However, the Team also recognizes that the dynamics underlying domestic violence are complex and that other parties often know about potential danger within domestic relationships, even if they do not report this to outside authorities who might intervene. Helping victims find assistance, and offenders find intervention, before domestic violence becomes lethal is the goal of the DVFRT.

In Section 8 of this report, the reader will find the profiles developed for each of the cases in 2017. In addition to these individual case profiles, this report also includes summary patterns for 2017 by gender, race, relationship, method of death, children present, criminal history of key actors, prior injunctions and other civil matters, prior child abuse referrals, shelter services extended to victims, services extended to children, interventions provided to abusers, prior alcohol/drug abuse by victims and suspects, mental health issues of suspects, and zip codes and law enforcement zones of the homicidal incident. Summary patterns for 1997-2017 are also provided. The Team uses these summaries to assess the long term patterns, as well as recurring problems and potential progress, in this area. It is from these long term and recurring patterns, as well as any unique event(s) of the year, that the Team develops its annual findings and recommendations, which are set forth in the following Findings and Recommendations section.

This report contains a Glossary at the end with terms and abbreviations that might be useful to some readers.

It should be noted that the statistics provided herein may not always add up to 100% due to rounding.
FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS
(2017)

This document focuses on a review of all domestic violence homicide cases involving adults which took place in Duval County, Florida, specifically for the year 2017. The team reviewed the fourteen (14) cases which occurred in 2017. This resulted in a total of fifteen (15) homicides which meet the statutory definition of domestic violence. Where known, the status of the judicial case against the suspect at the time of this analysis is reported. In one of the cases reviewed, the initial attack actually took place in 2008 and the victim died in December of 2016. The death was declared a homicide in 2017 so it is reviewed in this report.

In addition, the entire period of 1997-2017 during which the Domestic Violence Fatality Review Team (DVFRT) has been in operation was reviewed for this report. A variety of patterns emerged from this data, both for the analysis of 2017 cases alone (see this report pages 26-30) and for the analysis of the full twenty-one-year time span (see this report pages 31-38).

Within the category of domestic homicide, the DVFRT distinguishes between intimate and non-intimate homicides (see Methodology, section 3). In 2017, thirty-eight (38) percent of the local domestic homicide cases (n=6) involved intimate partners. In addition, two of the non-intimate homicides happened in correlation with an attack on an intimate partner. Over the previous twenty years, the majority (75%) of domestic violence homicides in Jacksonville also involved intimate partners.

Despite an overall decline in homicides, both nationally and locally, there has been no such decline in domestic violence homicides. Therefore, cases of domestic violence between intimate partners need to be taken very seriously and all of them need to be viewed as potentially lethal. Effective intervention can save the lives of battered victims and their family members.

Based on the patterns in this report, the DVFRT made a number of findings and sets forth herein some recommendations for local practice based on those findings:
Finding #1
Eleven of the fourteen cases (79%) of domestic homicide in 2017 involved male suspects. Females comprised 53% of the victims. This is the third year of a more skewed gender ratio than usual. Males committed 76% of the intimate homicides of women and 89% of the non-intimate homicides for the overall 1997-2017 period, including 89% of the murder-suicides. All the multiple homicides for 1997-2017 were committed by males. Clearly, there remains an overwhelming gender disparity in who commits domestic violence homicides in Duval County.

Recommendation:
Male offenders disproportionately victimize females in a wide variety of ways, including lethally. Domestic violence homicide in Duval County is primarily committed by male offenders against female victims. This was never more obvious than in 2014, 2015, and 2016. It is important for law enforcement, the courts, and service providers to regard all female victims of domestic violence as potential homicide victims.

Finding #2
Firearms remain the primary weapon used in domestic violence homicides.

Recommendation:
It is important to discuss the potential lethality of firearms in the hands of an abuser. Additionally, it is important that lethality assessments and safety planning be addressed in all potential domestic violence situations and with all domestic violence victims.

Finding #3
In nine (64%) of the 2017 homicides there was a prior arrest for domestic violence yet only one person was ordered to batterers’ intervention. Overall, during the 1997-2017 time periods, 61-suspects (27%) had prior arrest(s) for domestic violence. In the overwhelming number of domestic violence cases in Duval County, there have been no previous arrests or injunctions before a homicide happened, so therefore no opportunity to intervene.

Recommendation:
When there is a history of violence or a victim reports violence, law enforcement, judges, prosecutors and service providers should take those reports seriously and respond aggressively, because these scenarios can escalate and become deadly quickly.

It is essential that probation check civil and criminal status of domestic violence offenders before termination of probation or completion of the batterers’ intervention program. It is also important that batterers’ intervention be completed timely when ordered.
Finding #4
In 2017 there were five cases where children were present during the homicide; in one of these cases a three-year-old child was killed. There was also a case where another adult family member was killed during the attack. Domestic violence can impact not just the immediate victim but the entire family. Without intervention, domestic violence can impact future relationships.

Recommendation:
It is important that secondary trauma and the potential for further violence, especially to children, be recognized and considered when making decisions in regards to protective orders, bond recommendations, visitation and custody.

Finding #5
In 2017 six (43%) of the fourteen suspects had a prior history of substance abuse arrests, as compared to 16% between 1997-2017. This is a substantial increase and a concern for the committee.

Recommendation:
The potential for lethality, when there is a history of substance abuse in domestic violence cases, must be taken into consideration when ordering interventions and addressing victim safety.

Finding #6
There continues to be a lack of understanding by victims and the general public regarding the potential for deadly violence by intimate partners.

Recommendation:
If the answer to any of the three following questions is yes, recognize the danger, report it and make appropriate referrals.

- Has your partner ever used a weapon against you or threatened you with a weapon?
- Has your partner threatened to kill you or your children?
- Do you think that your partner will try to kill you?

There is a clear need for a public awareness campaign to increase the recognition among victims and bystanders of these potential lethality factors and how very important it is for family, friends and co-workers to say something to authorities (doctors, police, the military or other helping professionals). This may prevent a tragedy.

Intimate homicides usually outnumber non-intimate homicides. This was not true in 2017.

METHOD (BY NUMBER OF VICTIMS)
Of the 15 total victims:
- 9 gunshot wounds (60%)
- 3 stabbing wounds (20%)
- 2 blunt force trauma (13%)
- 1 strangulation (7%)

Though homicides in the United States generally tend to involve mostly firearms (69% according to the FBI www.fbi.gov), domestic homicides are more likely to also involve a variety of other fatal methods.

CHILDREN (BY NUMBER OF CASES)
In five of the fourteen cases (36%), a total of eight minor children were present at the time of the homicide. One was killed. This is higher than past years (25%).

CRIMINAL HISTORY: DOMESTIC VIOLENCE (BY NUMBER OF PEOPLE)
Only those cases in which victims or suspects were previously arrested for domestic violence are included below (n=9 cases).

- Victims (n=6, 43% of cases, 40% of victims)
  - 1 female with 1 domestic violence arrest
  - 1 female with 4 domestic violence arrests
  - 2 males with 1 domestic violence arrest
  - 1 male with 2 domestic violence arrests
  - 1 male with 3 domestic violence arrests

- Suspects (n=5, 36% of total cases, 36% of suspects)
  - 1 female with 1 domestic violence arrest
  - 2 males with 2 domestic violence arrests
  - 1 male with 3 domestic violence arrests
  - 1 male with 4 domestic violence arrests

Prior arrest for domestic violence is considered a high risk indicator for possible lethal behavior (see Campbell, et al., 2007). Five of the cases in 2017 involved an offender who had previously been arrested for this offense. This does not mean that the other cases did not involve prior domestic violence, only that they did not result in arrests.

INJUNCTIONS AND OTHER CIVIL MATTERS (BY NUMBER OF PEOPLE)
Only those cases in which victims and/or suspects had prior injunctions or other civil matters are included below (n=4 cases, 29% of total cases).

- Victims (n=2, 14% of total cases, 13% of victims)
  - 1 female was a petitioner in two domestic violence injunctions, and a respondent in another injunction
  - 1 female had pending dissolution of marriage from suspect

- Suspects (n=4, 29% of total cases, 29% of suspects)

  - 1 male had a pending dissolution of marriage with victim

There was one case in which previous child abuse referrals had been made in 2017 (7% of cases).

- Victims (n=0)
- Suspects (n=1, 7% of cases)
  - 1 female with child removed

SERVICES
To protect confidentiality, services for victims and children are only reported in the multi-year patterns.

INTERVENTION (BY NUMBER OF PEOPLE)
Only victims and suspects who were ordered to complete a batterers’ intervention program (BIP) or other interventions are included below (n=2, 14% of cases).

- Victims (n=1, 7% of cases)
  - 1 female ordered to anger management

- Suspects (n=1, 17% of intimate cases)
  - 1 female ordered to batterers’ intervention

ALCOHOL/DRUG ABUSE (BY NUMBER OF PEOPLE)
Only victims and suspects who were previously arrested for substance abuse are included below (n=7 cases, 50% of cases).

- Victims (n=6, 43% of total cases, 40% of victims)
  - 1 female with 1 substance abuse arrest
3 females with 2 substance abuse arrests
1 female with 3 substance abuse arrests
1 male with 3 substance abuse arrests

- Suspects (n=6, 50% of total cases, 50% of suspects)
  - 1 female with 2 substance abuse arrests
  - 2 males with 2 substance abuse arrests
  - 2 males with 2 substance abuse arrests
  - 1 male with 7 substance abuse arrests

Though alcohol and drug abuse do not cause domestic violence, they are known to be correlated with such violence. In 2017, there were a higher number of cases with substance abuse arrests, as compared to previous years (32%).

MENTAL HEALTH ISSUES (BY NUMBER OF PEOPLE)
Only victims and suspects with prior documented mental health issues are included below (n=0 case).

- Victims (n=0)
- Suspects (n=0)

Prior mental health problems are a known factor in some domestic violence cases. None of the cases this year involved a suspect with pre-existing documented mental health issues. Most domestic homicides are not related to mental illness (see Campbell, et al., 2007).
