July Screening Events

WKAR will host two screenings this month at the station. These free events are a wonderful way to get a sneak preview of an upcoming WKAR program and hear a speaker who adds insight into the program.

Great Performances at the Met

Wednesday, July 25, 7 p.m. at WKAR

WKAR will host a sneak preview of the upcoming Great Performances at the Met production of Satyagraha. Preview guest Molly Fillmore, an associate professor of voice in the College of Music at Michigan State University, appears as Mrs. Naidoo in the Philip Glass opera which follows the life of Mahatma Gandhi during his early life in South Africa. It was here that he developed the revolutionary philosophy of non-violent resistance that continues to be used in protests around the world. The opera was hailed by the Washington Post as “a profound and beautiful work of theater.”

The event is free but advance reservations are required at WKAR.org.

The Small Matter of Big Science

Monday, July 30, 7 p.m. at WKAR

The Small Matter of Big Science is a two-part video series exploring the evolution of science through the lens of nuclear physics. The first episode takes viewers from mankind’s basic curiosity about our origins all the way to modern isotope research at the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory (NSCL) at Michigan State University.

The sneak preview of this series will include not only video but a talk with Dr. Konrad Gelbke, director at the NSCL and Facility for Rare Isotope Beams (FRIB).

The event is free but advance reservations are required at WKAR.org.

For additional information, contact Becky Scheel at (517) 432-3120, ext. 354.
WKAR Create Marathons

WKAR Create is seen on Channel 23.3 and on many cable systems. Create Marathons are seen Saturdays from 6 a.m.-Noon and 6 p.m. to midnight and the following Sunday from Noon to 6 p.m.

7/07 Very Berry
Julia Child, John Besh and others share berry recipes, while P. Allen Smith shows how to decorate with berries.

7/14 Exotic Sweets
Add juicy fruits to your dishes with tips from Mary Ann Esposito, Ming Tsai and Jacques Pepin.

7/21 Take it Outside!
Get gardening tips from The Victory Garden and outdoor party ideas from John Shields and Katie Brown.

7/28 London Calling
Commemorate the start of the summer Olympics in London, England with Create! Make bread pudding, check out restaurants with the Galvin Brothers and visit popular sites with Rudy Maxa and Rick Steves.

Market Warriors | Mondays at 9 p.m., beginning July 16

Treasure hunters embark on an antiques adventure in Market Warriors, from the producers of Antiques Roadshow. Expert shoppers scour flea markets across the country for vintage valuables, selling their finds at auction with an eye towards maximizing profit. Fred Willard hosts.

A Capitol Fourth
Wednesday, July 4, 8 & 9:30 p.m.
Celebrate America’s birthday with A Capitol Fourth, an Independence Day tradition. Unrivaled performances from some of the country’s best-known musical artists are topped off by a terrific display of fireworks, live from the West Lawn of the U.S. Capitol. Tom Bergeron hosts.

The British Are Coming!
WKAR and PBS continue their own British Jubilee with new episodes of The Monarchy: The Royal Family at Work (continuing through July 9) and two new series.

Michael Wood returns to public television with the Story of England, following the English village of Kibworth through 2,000 years. Kibworth lived through the Black Death, the English Civil War, the Industrial Revolution and World War II. (Premieres July 3.)

Queen & Country (premieres on July 1 at 8 p.m.) celebrates Elizabeth II as England marks Her Majesty’s Diamond Jubilee. Sir Trevor McDonald looks at the traditions and institutions surrounding the monarchy, from Changing the Guard at Buckingham Palace through the queen’s royal visits to some of the greatest historic palaces.

Kevin Whately and Lawrence Fox track down murderers in Oxford on new episodes of Inspector Lewis, solving cases in the seemingly perfect academic haven of Oxford. The season opens with the discovery of a ritual burial of an obsessive Oxford English professor, with the team’s work complicated by an amateur detective. Later episodes deal with the death of a lovelorn professor, the murder of a babysitter and the strangling of a guest lecturer.

Masterpiece Mystery!
Sundays at 9 p.m.
Before Inspector Morse, there was the rookie Constable Endeavour Morse, ready to resign from police work until a murder turns up that only he can solve. Shaun Evans stars in Endeavour as the young Morse, before his signature red Jaguar, but with deductive powers already running in high gear (July 1).

On July 8, Kevin Whately and Lawrence Fox return in new episodes of Inspector Lewis, solving cases in the seemingly perfect academic haven of Oxford. The season opens with the discovery of a ritual burial of an obsessive Oxford English professor, with the team’s work complicated by an amateur detective. Later episodes deal with the death of a lovelorn professor, the murder of a babysitter and the strangling of a guest lecturer.

During Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II’s Jubilee Year, WKAR joins the celebration with a number of programs tied to Britain and the monarchy.
WKAR has been out and about in our community this spring and summer! Here are some favorite shots from our photo album. (Look for us at next month’s Old Town Jazz Festival, the Great Lakes Folk Festival and the Mosaic Festival on Labor Day Weekend.)

At the Zoo!

1. Connie Montague and her grandchildren stopped by WKAR’s tent at Potter Park Zoo during Be a Tourist in Your Own Town. Their favorite shows were “Peep and the Big Wide World” and “Wild Kratts.”

2. WKAR-TV station manager Susi Elkins chats with a visitor to WKAR’s booth at Potter Park Zoo. The event was in conjunction with Be a Tourist in Your Own Town.

3. WKAR gives out Dinosaur Train “Nature Trackers Guide” at the International Migratory Bird Day event at Potter Park Zoo.
At the Art Festival!

4. Curious George, Super WHY! and a young fan pose for a photo at the East Lansing Art Festival.
5. Art festival fans Gary Reid, WKAR’s general manager, with Pat Madden. Wonder what station they enjoy most?!
6. Two WKAR Street Team members are happy to be with Super WHY!
7. Nothing makes us happier than seeing smiling fans – especially the little art festival-goers!
8. Stuck on WKAR! This little one in his springtime green, sports a WKAR sticker at the East Lansing Art Festival! Perhaps he’s a fan of “Sesame Street!”

July 2012 | StayTuned
DO! A reMARKable craft project

Summer is a great time to read. Save your place in your favorite summer story with a bookmark! With a few simple supplies and lots of fun, you can make bookmarks for yourself and all your friends.

SUPPLIES:
- Jumbo Paper Clips
- Glue – hot glue (let mom help) or a thick, fast-grip glue
- Decorative items – buttons, chipboard letters, family photos or magazine pictures glued onto card stock, shells, old earrings with posts removed, etc.
- Wax paper or freezer paper

INSTRUCTIONS:
- Choose your button or decorative item you want to show at the top. (Challenge your child to find their own initials to spell out!)
- Glue paper clip to the back of the decorative piece.
- Lay the bookmark on a piece of waxed paper to dry – then make more!
- When you’re all done, read a book and mark your spot!

Veteran reporter, Gretchen Millich, retired from WKAR last month. Millich reported on the mid-Michigan community for 22 years, focusing on what listeners jokingly call “cops and critters.” She was also heard occasionally as a substitute host for All Things Considered and as a regular fundraising host on Morning Edition.

But Millich’s beat covered more than “cops and critters.” She’s also reported on public policy, legal issues, the arts and the environment. Her work has resulted in awards from the Associated Press, Michigan Association of Broadcasters, Michigan United Conservation Clubs and the State Bar of Michigan, among others.

Away from the microphone, Millich played a key role as director of WKAR’s statewide call-in programs, featuring governors, state lawmakers and candidates.

Gretchen worked briefly for WKAR in the 1970s. She then worked at WAMU in Washington D.C. and as a producer on the staff of All Things Considered at NPR. She returned to WKAR in 1990.

“I’ve had so much fun as a reporter for WKAR. I’ve gone bear-hunting, fishing in Lake Superior, wine-tasting and got up close and personal with eagles,” says Millich. “I’ve found that people in Michigan love this state, and they care about our lakes, wildlife, arts and communities. I’ve had the privilege of getting to know many of these caring people, and it’s enriched my life.”

Gretchen Millich’s work at WKAR has enriched the lives of station’s listeners as well. Join us in sharing our best wishes for a wonderful retirement.

Radio Reader Offers Baseball Story

Writer John Grisham takes a departure from his typical white-collar crime novels with the newest Radio Reader offering, “Calico Joe.” Dick Estell begins the novel on July 13.

When he arrived in Philadelphia, a cab delivered Joe Castle to Veterans Stadium, where he was quickly fitted for a uniform and hustled onto the field. Understandably, he was nervous when the manager said, “Get loose. You’re starting at first and hitting seventh.”

Joe Castle was the wonder of baseball, the greatest rookie anyone had ever seen. Then a pitcher threw a fast ball at his head and both their careers were over.

The Washington Post wrote of Calico Joe, “It’s a sweet, simple story, a fable really. And like all fables, it has a moral: Good can come out of evil; it’s never too late to confess your sins and seek forgiveness.”
