Fall Preview News!

WKAR's Fall Preview was a big success — thanks to all who came!

Several items were announced at the Fall Preview event including WKAR's new 24/7 television broadcasting, the availability of an iPad app for Off the Record now (with our other series to come) and the launch of a new community culture-and-issues-oriented show coming soon to WKAR Radio and hosted by Mark Bashore. We also announced our celebrity QuizBusters guests. The September 11 game was tons of fun for us all, and we were glad you could join us for that, too!

Visit WKAR.org often for information on our upcoming Evening at WKAR and Community Cinema Screenings. Sometimes they crop up quickly and information isn't available at press time!

"QuizBusters" Celebs Rock WKAR Studios

Michigan State University's fearless and loveable mascot, Sparty, made an appearance in the WKAR studio for a taping of QuizBusters Special Edition.

Ed Slott

Ed Slott Visits WKAR

Tuesday, October 16, at 3:30 p.m.

WKAR invites you to meet public television financial host Ed Slott at a special WKAR event presented by Richmond Brothers on Tuesday, October 16, at 3:30 p.m. at WKAR's studios. Tickets are $30 each or two for $50. To order, visit WKAR.org.

highlights

WKAR-TV Station Manager Susi Elkins lays out plans for programs and community engagement activities.

Host Matt Ottinger and WKAR General Manager Gary Reid reveal QB Special Edition participants.

Tim Zeko, Nancy Kelly and Scott Schoessel at the controls.

WKAR opened its studio doors to 16 well-known local personalities and 150 audience members on September 11 for the taping of a QuizBusters Special Edition.

The two games were lively and fun, and so were our guest contestants! The hands on the buzzers were lightning-fast as Matt Ottinger threw out the questions.

Special thanks to our celebrity guests, Greg Adeline, Chad Badgero, Jake Bos, Jr., Terry Braverman, Renee Canady, Sue Carter, Kat Cooper, Molly Fillmore, Bob Hoffman, Mike Hughes, Lynn Jondahl, Robin Miner-Swartz, Evan Pinnsnault, Guy Sanville, Jen Sygit, and Scott Westerman, Thanks, too, to Sparty. When the team divisions are Green and White, he doesn't have to choose sides!

PreView Conversations

Saturday, October 6, 7:15 p.m.

WKAR's Jody Knol will host a PreView Conversation at Lansing Symphony Orchestra's October 6 concert. The concert will feature bassoonist Michael Kroth with a program that includes music by Mendelssohn, Mozart and Shostakovich. PreView Conversations begin at 7:15 and offer insight into the upcoming concert with musicians and special guests. (These events fill up fast! Get there early!)

Masterpiece: Upstairs, Downstairs II

Sundays, 9 p.m.

In the year before WWII, life at 165 Eaton Place finds Lady Agnes and Sir Hallam's family complete with the addition of two small children. Sir Hallam is drawn into dangerous waters by his preoccupation with the threat of Nazi Germany and the return of troubled Lady Persie. Sir Hallam's aunt, Dr. Blanche Mottershead (Alex Kingston), makes herself comfortable in the house after Lady Maud's death. Life downstairs adjusts to the absence of Rose and the addition of the spirited new nursery maid, Beryl.

Peter Whorf

MEET WKAR'S

New Radio Station Manager Has Big Plans for WKAR!

One week after Peter Whorf moved his family from Chicago to Michigan and began his new position as WKAR Radio station manager, he was on stage at WKAR's Fall Preview, sharing with guests a little bit of his background and plans for the coming year, including a new daily local and regional news and culture magazine show.

As yet unnamed, the show will be hosted by Mark Bashore and be broadcast live in WKAR's newly renovated radio studios, which include an area for live music performance and cameras so the program can be seen on WKAR.org. Eventually, the best material from the daily program will also be heard on an updated weekend edition of the show.

An Ideal Time to Start...

It's just one of many projects on his already-full plate. First, there's the annual October on-air membership campaign! "This is an ideal time to start," Peter says. "It's a way I can meet volunteers, take calls, be on the air, hear comments and see what people support."

Listening is a key factor in his first months at WKAR. "It's important to be aware, listen and serve," he says. "My first goal is to do have more core listeners and members say 'you're bringing me more of what I want to hear.'"

Peter is spending plenty of time listening and connecting, not only with the mid-Michigan community but with those particularly related to the program streams on WKAR. Those include Timothy Muffitt, Lansing Symphony Orchestra conductor, others from the College of Music at Michigan State University and other local and regional business, education, media and cultural leaders.

Homecoming

With tremendously busy days at WKAR and in the community, it's much easier for Peter to head home from WKAR at the end of the day than it was during his time in Chicago! In fact, "coming to Michigan was really coming home to me," he says. He and his wife, Jennifer, and their three elementary school-aged children live in Okemos; his oldest is a sophomore at University of Michigan. With his dad and two sisters also within two hours from home, family visits are more frequent and easier.

"Last weekend we picked up my dad, took him to the Henry Ford Museum, dropped him off and were home for dinner," he said, noting how easy it was to get together, compared to a five-and-a-half hour drive from Chicago's north side.

A Perfect Fit

While Peter Whorf brings a news production component to WKAR, the station's classical music focus offers a perfect fit for its new manager. As a violin major at Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York, he still plays as a "part-time professional musician," in everything from orchestras to weddings and "pick-up" chamber ensembles with friends.

Whorf began his career as a part-time host and producer at WXXI/Rochester, an NPR station with a format similar to WKAR's. When the station split to include a jazz format, he worked jazz for a time.

From then, the career was broadcasting, an occupation that had its roots back home in suburban Detroit where he grew up. (Peter's father is Mike Whorf, a name familiar to listeners of WJR Radio.) After leaving WXXI, his career included management positions at WNYC/New York and KBIA/University of Missouri. Most recently, Whorf held leadership roles at two Chicago Stations, WBEZ and WFMT where he was program director and vice president for content.

"I hope to turn our attention to more classical releases on WKAR," he says, a practice that would reinforce the fact that WKAR is "in touch with new recordings, ensembles and emerging artists in classical music."

First Things First

But the news show comes first, targeted to premiere in late 2012. The program will follow an NPR-quality model, with a strong emphasis on current local issues and newsmakers, books, music and the arts, but also dig deeper into local stories and issues.

Peter describes the new studio as "a tool that will allow us to have top-notch production values and live music performances," admitting that the most difficult challenge will be culling down the daily selection of stories from the variety of topics available. Describing the show as the "flagship local news program for WKAR Radio," he will make use of the resources of Michigan State University and the vast number of nationally-recognized speakers that come to MSU, along with those of the mid-Michigan community.

GO BATTY!

Blind as a Bat?

This saying developed because bats use a form of sonar called echolocation to navigate in the dark. However, bats CAN see and they have excellent hearing and sense of smell. Perhaps the saying should really be "Keen as a Bat!"

How keen are YOUR senses? Play "Bat Catcher" and find out!

It's like Marco Polo with a batty twist.

You will need 6 or more players. To play, pick one player to be the "bat" and another player to be the "moth." (The bat should not know who the moth is.) The rest of the players are "trees" that form a circle and stand still.

The bat and moth are both blindfolded. They can move around during the game, but can't go out of the circle.

The object of the game is for the bat to use sound to catch its prey, the moth. When the bat calls out "ECHO," the moth answers "PREY." All other players answer "TREE."

Once the bat tags the moth, the moth becomes the bat and a new moth is picked.

BAT Facts

Bats are mammals that live on every continent in the world, except Antarctica.

All Bats:

- have thumbs and fingers
- sleep upside down
- hunt at night & sleep all day
- live in groups

Yummy Spiders!

Bats eat spiders. And you might want to eat spiders too—when you make this spooky snack!

INGREDIENTS (per 'spider')

- 2 round crackers
- Peanut butter or spreadable cheese
- 8 chow mein noodles or pretzel sticks
- 2 raisins

DIRECTIONS

1. Spread a little peanut butter or cheese on one of the crackers.
2. For the legs, press 4 noodles or pretzels into the cheese on one side of the cracker, then 4 more on the other side.
3. Place the second cracker on top.
4. For the eyes, dab two spots of peanut butter or cheese on the top cracker to 'glue' the raisins into place.
5. Enjoy your spider snack!

Enemies: A History of the FBI, by Tim Weiner

Tim Weiner's new book, Enemies: A History of the FBI, offers a unique perspective on the role of the White House to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Dick Estell begins reading the book on October 19. A frightening look at a key governmental organization, the story is told with the enthusiasm and suspense of a great spy novel.

Weiner's premise is that most presidents have been intimidated by the F.B.I., and because they are, they have allowed the organization to do everything from tap phones to break into homes and organizations for information. That's what the author says Hoover claimed.

And, if that is the case, it is America's presidents that bear the blame for many violations of our freedoms.

From the time the F.B.I. was organized, the group has authorized secret intelligence operations, a key element in Weiner's book. Some were failures, some embarrassing, some vindictive and others incompetent. Among these were failing to stop the Weather Underground and not managing to catch a Puerto Rican terrorist group.

There were also successes, including a program that damaged the Ku Klux Klan, for example.

The book goes up to present day, looking at director Louis Freeh's vendetta against the Clintons and through findings of the 9/11 Commission. With Weiner's Pulitzer Prize-winning background and depth of work as a New York Times reporter, he brings a unique and thorough look at a key governmental agency. He is also the winner of the National Book Award for his look at the C.I.A., Legacy of Ashes.
