Top O’ the Morning to you!

Spring Fling | Mar. 24 & 25
Spring is definitely in the air! The weather is warming up, and we are in the garden with P. Allen Smith enjoying the reawakening of nature. Artists Susan Scheewe and Gary and Kathwren Jenkins display the beauty of the season on canvas. Spring menus by Julie Taboulie and Joanne Weir feature garden fresh vegetables. Spring has certainly sprung!

WKAR Connects You to Resources and Services

In February, WKAR Public Media launched WKAR Connects, a new multiplatform community service campaign that strives to connect the community with local resources and services on issues of domestic violence, sexual assault, and much more. WKAR Connects features nonprofits and organizations such as End Violent Encounters (EVE), which provides supportive services to survivors of domestic abuse and sexual violence, while empowering the community through education and awareness. Nonprofits and organizations who wish to be a part of WKAR Connects please contact WKAR Communications Coordinator Amanda Pinckney at amanda@wkar.org.

WKAR Takes Home National Awards

WKAR was honored to receive two awards at the National Education Telecommunications Association (NETA) Conference on January 23 in Washington, D.C. The two awards included the promotion award for the special event WKAR Family Launch Open House and the production award for the performance of BackStage Pass: Toronzo Cannon. The 2017 NETA awards were presented to 30 projects from 20 public television stations at the annual NETA Conference. The competition honors member stations’ finest work in community engagement, promotion, instructional media, and content production.
