

NORTHERN PUBLIC RADIO PRODUCTION / PROGRAMMING INTERNSHIP

Northern Public Radio is pleased to offer an Internship that will introduce qualified applicants to many facets of radio production and programming.

The position will also provide an opportunity to experience other elements of radio operations, such as news and business, as time permits. Specific interests of the intern will be discussed and incorporated into the duties whenever possible. This position does not include on-air announcing functions. Assignments and duties of the Production / Programming Internship include, but are not limited to:

1. Involvement with the WNIJ, WNIU and NIRIS Operations and Production Departments.
 - Hands-on use of broadcast and production equipment
 - Preparation of promotional and other broadcast material
 - Use of the Digital Audio Workstation(s)
 - Work with a variety of audio media
 - Preparation of daily Program Logs, continuity and other materials
 - Operation of the computer-based automation system and satellite downlink
2. Involvement with the Program Department
 - Basic introduction to audience measurement tools
 - General introduction to program decision-making process

For more information, please contact Carl Nelson at Northern Public Radio: 815-753-0074 or CarlNelson84@niu.edu.

Internships at Northern Public Radio are non-paid positions. Preference is given to applicants seeking internships for the purpose of receiving academic credit in a related field of study at Northern Illinois University.