

SEPTEMBER SPECIALS:

A Tribute to Woody Guthrie

Sunday September 3 at 10pm

Enjoy an hour of songs that celebrate the contributions Guthrie made in understanding the plight of the poor, the dispossessed and the hungry here in North America during the Great Depression of the 30s and beyond...His music examined the reason Fascism needed to be opposed by People all over the world, and his children's music celebrated family and a happy childhood. Woody Guthrie's contributions to roots music created many standard tunes for folk music, and oriented acoustic popular music upwards to refer to the oppression of the poor, the politics of hate and racism and the need for Freedom to defeat Fascism...Woody did these things authentically with a voice that still speaks to the heart and will never die.

After Blues Fest Weekend is over, Public Radio 90's Hans Ahlstrom keeps you rockin' with a look back at the 2016 festival. Enjoy highlights from The Kinsey Report, The Ghost Town Blues Band, Reverend Robert, Brian Keith Wallen, and headliner Samantha Fish.

Dear Public Radio 90 Members,

You count on WNMU, Public Radio 90 to stay connected to news, information, and the rich cultural offerings here in our community and throughout the world. Wherever you are—whatever you're doing—Public Radio 90 brings you the stories, conversations, and wide array of music you rely on every day.

While there are a few hundred small stations across the country like WNMU, many do not have the resources to air both local and nationally produced programming. You make it possible for Public Radio 90 to continue offering a full variety of programming to our listeners.

It costs nearly a million dollars each year to keep Public Radio 90 operating and maintain the program quality that you expect, and almost half of that comes from our listeners. This year we expect to see another 4-7% increase in program costs and satellite distribution fees from NPR and other national program producers as well as increases in electricity and other utilities. However, thanks to your generous support, we met our $400,000 fundraising goal for FY2017 so we won't have to face the additional challenge of more budget cuts in FY2018.

Our October fundraising campaign is right around the corner once again. It's important that we raise at least $65,000 to stay on track with program expenses so any donation you can give at this time, even if it's just a small one, will make a big difference to you and your community.

WNMU, Public Radio 90 is a resource you share with other listeners. When you contribute you share the cost of keeping the station on the air. Please give today at wnmufm.org or call us at 800-227-WNMU and encourage your friends and neighbors to do the same.

Thanks in advance for helping to sustain your local public radio station, WNMU-FM, Public Radio 90.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Massaro Station Manager

A Note From:

Dear Public Radio 90 Listeners,

Thanks to your efforts, we're making good progress toward ensuring that public broadcasting maintains its funding for Fiscal Year (FY) 2018 and beyond. We still have a long road ahead of us, but until Congress returns from its summer recess, here's a quick update on where we stand in the federal funding process for public media:

- The full House Appropriations Committee passed its Health and Human Services, Education and Related Agencies (Labor-HHS-Ed) FY 2018 spending bill, which includes full funding for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB) and Ready To Learn.
- Unfortunately, the House did not include funding for Interconnection - which provides the essential infrastructure that allows WNMU and other public radio and TV stations to broadcast your favorite programs - in its budget.

When Congress returns from its summer recess after Labor Day, we will have work to do to ensure that all public media funding, including funding for Interconnection, is included in the Senate spending bill and any final spending bill negotiated between the House and the Senate.

There will likely be a few more opportunities to protect full funding for our stations. You can learn more about what has happened so far and what is to come by visiting protectmypublicmedia.org.

But we know we can overcome any challenge together.

Thank you for standing up and speaking out for your public stations. It's because of you that we march another step forward.

With gratitude,
The Protect My Public Media Team

Over 2.5 million men enlisted in the corps and today their children and grandchildren have a keen interest in it. During September, In the Pines features recordings made at the July 2016 Beaver Island Music Festival.

Beaver Island, located in Lake Michigan, 32 miles off of Charlevoix is roughly 13 miles long by 6 miles wide and has a year-round regular population of about 500 people. It's also a popular tourist spot in the summer, driving the population up sharply. Also known as the American Emerald Isle, Beaver Island is thickly wooded, has miles of private beaches and several main roads crisscrossing the island. The vibe is down-to-earth and relaxed. You couldn't ask for a better place for a music festival! The Beaver Island Music Festival is hosted on private land on the off-the-grid homestead of Carol & Dan Burton.

In July of 2016, Jane Cisluycis, host of "In The Pines" attended the 13th annual BIMF and made recordings for our Public Radio 90 listeners. The line up was varied and eclectic; and the crowd was enthusiastic, staying positive through numerous rain showers. Here is a sampling of the acts performed that weekend.

9/3 & 7 - Acoustic Duo of Ben Pervier & Andrews Sais

9/10 & 14 - Singer-songwriter Samuel Seth Bernard

9/17 & 21 - Multi-instrumentalist Olivia Mainville & The Aquatic Troupe
